Dear Parents,

Warm Greetings !!!

As we are close to the final exams for session 2023-24. We have ensured that all our students come out with flying colours.

It's that time of the year! You are trying to do all that you can to make sure your child excels in the examinations. We felt like sharing some thoughts in this context – we certainly are taking the liberty in doing so, knowing fully well that it is you who knows better about your child.

As parents, we all love to help our child, and be supportive of our child –the only intent being that we would like our child to be able to bring out the total, inherent potential.

We would like all our parents to take care of the following guidelines and help the child to progress and excel well in the upcoming exams.

- Ensure the child gets nourishing food and sufficient sleep.
- Help the child discover the latest bright spots.
- Share good and positive things and allow the child to explore and internalize them.
- Help the child – the way the child wants and seeks that help.
- Enable the child to excel by being there for the child.
- Make the child know that we love the child no matter what is the 'outcome' – gently shift our attention and the attention of the child to 'effort', this is all that one really has control over .

Wishing all our students the best wishes for their future endeavours!!!!

Regards,

Principal
